NEWS RELEASE

Brinks security invests in Goldman-backed BitGo digital asset custody

2024-01-24

Today, Brinks, the security firm known for moving cash, announced it is partnering with digital asset custody firm BitGo and investing. In 2022 another digital asset custody provider, Metaco, partnered with Brinks to protect key backups. Metaco is now owned by Ripple.

No further details about the BitGo investment were shared.

“We are excited to not only partner with, but invest in BitGo as we become their global secure logistics and vaulting provider,” said Zac McKenna, Brink’s Manager of Digital Assets.

Article continues ...

Want the full story? Pro subscribers get complete articles, exclusive industry analysis, and early access to legislative updates that keep you ahead of the competition. Join the professionals who are choosing deeper insights over surface level news.