Company earns 35th spot on The Financial Times' 2025 list of the 500 Fastest Growing Companies in the Americas

LAS VEGAS, April 7, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- CleanSpark, Inc. (Nasdaq: CLSK), America's Bitcoin Miner® (the "Company"), has earned the 35th spot on The Americas' Fastest Growing Companies 2025, an annual ranking by The Financial Times and Statista Inc., a world-leading statistics portal and industry ranking provider. The list identifies the top 500 companies based in twenty North, Central and South American countries.

"CleanSpark is pleased to make the top 40 on The Americas' Fastest Growing Companies list," said CleanSpark CEO and President Zach Bradford. "Our incredible growth since 2020 showcases the value of our strategy and our team's grit and adaptability over multiple years. Even more, our proven track since then has continued with our FY2024 revenue increasing 123% since FY2023 and the tremendous expansion of our Bitcoin mining footprint, which is expected to reach 50 EH/s in hashrate during the first half of this year."

"Bitcoin is an incredibly important finite digital asset that allows for borderless peer-to-peer payments, a unique opportunity of financial inclusion across the globe, and can serve as a store of value. Since CleanSpark started Bitcoin mining in 2020, we continue to execute on our strategic goal of reaching an operational scale that provides financial advantages while capturing valuable market share. We currently support approximately 5% of the global Bitcoin network with our hashrate, making CleanSpark one of the largest producers of bitcoin in the world. CleanSpark has created a position of financial stability with a strong balance sheet, which includes nearly 12,000 bitcoin holdings, allowing the Company to weather any storm. We look forward to a larger adoption of Bitcoin and will continue paving the way for a new digital economy."
