

Brendan McCarthy, Managing Director, is responsible for the US Markets Coverage team and the Institutional Product Consulting team.

The US Markets Coverage team delivers trading and market structure expertise to clients, advising on the most effective way to access liquidity for a desired exposure, relative value of ETFs compared to other financial instruments, and how to utilize ETFs as the reference asset in derivatives. The US Institutional Product Consulting team supports institutional clients in providing in-depth investment and product expertise for iShares offerings as well as customized comparative product analytics.

Brendan joined Blackrock in December 2016 after 15 years working in the Securities Division at Goldman Sachs where he was a Managing Director on the Portfolio Sales & Trading team. During his time at Goldman, Brendan worked with institutional accounts implementing equity strategies around the globe, having been responsible for portfolio trading, ETF's, and synthetic products. He has experience in market microstructure, algorithmic trading, index constitution, hedging instruments, and risk management. Brendan's experience also includes several years (2006-2013) working in both Tokyo and Hong Kong where he helped build and manage Goldman's regional team focused on equity portfolio products.
