

Health Education Solutions Offers Tools and Tips for Changing Paths in New Career Transitions Special Section

Leading Provider of Continuing Healthcare Education Helps Individuals Learn About Switching Career Paths and Gaining Needed Certifications

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 2, 2010 /PRNewswire via COMTEX News Network/ -- Healthcare will generate 3.2 million new wage and salary jobs between 2008 and 2018--more than any other industry, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This rapid growth underscores the importance of training and continuing education as professionals shift careers within this growing industry. To assist healthcare professionals as they transition into new positions within the same field, Health Education Solutions, the leading provider of continuing education solutions for healthcare professionals, today released a new Career Transitions Special Section. This series of articles, vignettes and important facts about healthcare career transitions is available in Health Education Solutions' online research library. The eight-article special section is free for healthcare providers, first responders and individuals who simply want to be prepared to provide emergency care.

"When transitioning into a new career, proper certification is vital, and demonstrating a commitment to continuing education can give you a competitive edge," said Melissa Marks, president of Health Education Solutions. "Health Education Solutions' research library and online healthcare certification courses present healthcare providers, first responders or anyone breaking into an emergency care-focused industry with the tools, information and resources to confidently make a career transition."

Highlights of the special section include:

- Tips for the Technology Averse
- Looking for a New Job in Healthcare? Consider Joining a Professional Association
- Identifying Career Prospects in Healthcare
- Certification Needs During Common Career Transitions
- Networking: Why and How?

Health Education Solutions offers online certification and recertification for advanced cardiac life support (ACLS) and pediatric advanced life support (PALS). ACLS and PALS courses were developed in partnership with Union College.
