Safe Harbor Statement

The news releases, presentations, filings with the Securities & Exchange Commission (“SEC”), and other information and materials made available on this website may contain forward-looking statements made in reliance upon the safe harbor of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements are subject to a number of factors that could cause our actual results to differ materially from what is indicated in such forward-looking statements. These factors include, but are not limited to, general economic conditions, the level of customer demand particularly for capital projects in the markets we serve, changes in supplier relationships or in supplier sales strategies or financial viability, risks associated with the sale of nonconforming products and services, political, economic or currency risks related to foreign operations, inventory obsolescence, copper price fluctuations, customer viability, risks associated with accounts receivable, the impact of regulation and regulatory, investigative and legal proceedings and legal compliance risks, information security risks, risks associated with substantial debt and restrictions contained in financial and operating covenants in our debt agreements, the impact and the uncertainty concerning the timing and terms of the withdrawal by the United Kingdom from the European Union, risks associated with integration of acquired companies, including, but not limited to, the risk that the acquisitions may not provide us with the synergies or other benefits that were anticipated, and other factors described in our most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K and any subsequent SEC filings. These or other risks and uncertainties may cause our actual results to be materially different than those expressed in any forward looking statements. The news releases, presentations, SEC filings, and other information and materials on this website speak only as of their respective dates. We do not undertake to update any forward looking statements or any outdated information in those materials and we expressly disclaim any obligation to do so. Please see our SEC filings for more information.
