AMERICAN AIRLINES LAUNCHES NEW SERVICE BETWEEN DALLAS/FORT WORTH AND LIMA, PERU

New Service Expands American’s Presence in Growing Latin American Market, Offers Latin American Customers Additional U.S. Gateway

FORT WORTH, Texas – American Airlines today launches daily service between Dallas/Fort Worth and Lima, Peru – providing more access and choices for customers traveling between the two key markets and beyond. The new route will enable customers to connect to other destinations in North America, Europe and Asia via American’s extensive global network out of Dallas/Fort Worth.

American provides more service than any other airline between the United States and Latin America with more than 900 weekly flights to 49 destinations. With the addition of Dallas/Fort Worth to Lima, customers can access 30 destinations to Mexico, Central America and South America from American’s Dallas/Fort Worth hub.

“Peru’s economy continues to expand and we’ve seen increased travel demand to that market, as well as throughout Latin America,” said Chuck Schubert, American’s Vice President – Network Planning. “This route plays a vital role in our international network strategy by offering seamless, one-stop connections to major domestic and international destinations through Dallas/Fort Worth – including customers traveling between Latin America and Asia.”

American’s relationship with oneworld® alliance partner LAN and its airline group members provides access to additional flight options within Latin America through codesharing along with customer loyalty program benefits for AAdvantage® and LANPASS members. In addition, American also serves Lima from its hub in Miami.
