

Cirrus Logic CEO Jason Rhode Selected 'Executive of the Year' at EE Times ACE Awards

Semiconductor Industry Panelists Select Rhode for Achievements in Company Performance, Revitalizing Cirrus Logic Corporate Culture

AUSTIN, Texas--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Cirrus Logic Inc. (Nasdaq: CRUS), a leader in high-precision analog and digital signal processing components, announced that its president and chief executive officer, Jason Rhode, was selected as the semiconductor industry "Executive of the Year" by EE Times at their seventh Annual Creative in Electronics \(ACE\) Awards in San Jose, Calif. The ACE Awards celebrate the creators of technology who demonstrate leadership and innovation in the global industry and shape the world we live in.

Rhode, who joined the company in 1995 as an analog design engineer, became president and CEO of Cirrus Logic in May 2007. After Rhode's appointment the company adopted the vision of becoming the first choice in signal processing components for audio and energy applications. This increased focus on the company's strengths allowed Cirrus Logic to experience a resurgence of financial growth, including year-over-year revenue growth of 67 percent in the most recently completed fiscal year. During the past several years, Rhode and the Cirrus Logic management team have revitalized the company culture, earning several awards as a top employer in Texas and the United States.

EE Times ACE Awards are judged by a renowned panel of semiconductor industry leaders.
