RMR Recognized as One of the Top Massachusetts Employers for the Third Consecutive Year

NEWTON, Mass.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- The RMR Group (Nasdaq: RMR) today announced that for the third consecutive year it has been named as one of the Top Places to Work in Massachusetts by The Boston Globe.

The Top Places to Work program recognizes organizations that are rated most favorably by their employees as determined by a confidential survey. This year, more than 94,000 employees at 381 companies in Massachusetts participated, which represents the most participants in the survey's 15-year history. The survey seeks employee feedback on an organization's culture, professional development opportunities and benefits.

Adam Portnoy, President and Chief Executive Officer, made the following statement:

"At RMR, we create long term value for our clients by managing their investments and assets 'Like We Own It.' Our steady growth as an alternative asset manager, currently with more than 2,100 properties nationwide and $37 billion in assets under management, is made possible by our employees. I also believe that our continued investment in the development of our employees is an essential component of RMR's success. Thanks to the efforts of our dedicated team, RMR has been named a Boston Globe Top Place to Work for the third year in a row."

RMR's repeat recognition as a Top Place to Work follows a series of awards during 2022 for the company and its clients. In June 2022, Office Properties Income Trust (Nasdaq: OPI) was recognized as a Gold Level Green Lease Leader by the U.S. Department of Energy's Better Buildings Alliance and the Institute for Market Transformation. In May 2022, a team from RMR was named a GlobeSt. Real Estate Forum Retail Influencer.
