2016-08-11

Adaptive learning, gamification allows CPA candidates to prepare in engaging, customized ways

DOWNERS GROVE, Ill.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Becker Professional Education, a global leader in professional education and a part of DeVry Education Group, is introducing innovative learning technology with a wide range of engaging study tools in its CPA Exam Review. The new course will include modular content, interactive tools and integrated materials to offer students more personalized options, flexibility and feedback when preparing for the CPA Exam. These new elements were designed with the most current content that is reflective of the changes in the CPA Exam starting April 2017.

“All of the innovative elements that will be offered as part of Becker’s CPA Exam Review, including a game-based study tool launching next month, provide each candidate with a personalized learning approach to help them achieve their goal of attaining the CPA credential,” said John Roselli, president at Becker Professional Education. “Nearly 50,000 hours and $3 million was spent on just the course itself, to develop a tool to help our candidates feel better prepared on exam day.”

Becker’s All New CPA Exam Review

Becker Professional Education’s new CPA Exam Review course will be available in January, and will feature elements such as:

- Adapt2U Adaptive Learning Technology – This adaptive technology begins with a specially designed pre-assessment that provides a recommended study path so candidates can focus their time in the areas where they need it most. It also includes performance reports that help candidates track their development and provide feedback to highlight specific areas where they may need to build knowledge and confidence.
- Short Modules, Optimized Study Time – To accommodate candidates’ busy schedules, review content will be modularized into short segments to optimize study time with the content most likely to appear on the 2017 CPA Exam.

- Interactive Skills Practice and Simulations – Becker developed a unique instructional experience, including interactive simulations and videos, to help candidates better prepare for the testing of higher-order cognitive skills on the 2017 CPA Exam.
- New Lectures and Textbooks – Newly recorded lectures and rewritten textbooks have been updated with key content relating to the 2017 CPA Exam blueprint.
- Mock Exams – Two full mock exams will mirror the content and format of the new 2017 CPA Exam.
- Intuitive Navigation and Learning Tools – From a full suite of integrated learning tools (note taking, highlighting, searching and video speed) to questions that will be aligned with lectures that reinforce key concepts, students will have the tools and flexibility to maximize their study time.
