Delphi names VP of Investor Relations

2016-01-11

GILLINGHAM, England--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Delphi Automotive PLC (NYSE: DLPH) announced today that Elena Doom Rosman has joined the company as vice president of Investor Relations.

Rosman was most recently Managing Partner of the investment advisory firm, Corbin Perception Group, a strategic investor relations advisory firm. Prior to that, she led Honeywell's investor relations efforts from 2009 to 2014, communicating Honeywell's strategy, financial results and outlook to the investment community. During her tenure she was recognized by Institutional Investor, earning a first place ranking in the category of Best IR Professional, Capital Equipment/Industrial sector, by both the buy- and sell-side communities.

"Elena brings an impressive track record in finance and is an award-winning professional in investor relations," said Kevin Clark, Delphi president and CEO. "I'm confident she will build on Delphi's formidable investor relations capabilities and relationships and will prove a strong advocate helping to build continued value for all of our shareholders."

Rosman joined Honeywell in 2002 where she held various management roles in treasury, investor relations and global M&A. Previously, Rosman worked as an associate at Arthur Andersen focused on international tax consulting. She holds a Bachelor of International Business from Loyola Marymount University and a Masters of Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame.
