"CareDx is proud to be the lead sponsor for this year's Donate Life Transplant Games, the largest transplant patient community event," said Reg Seeto, CEO and President of CareDx. "It is our privilege to serve the transplant community and raise awareness about the need for donations which give patients a new lease on life."

The biennial Donate Life Transplant Games is expected to draw over 6,000 athletes and transplant supporters from across the United States and globally. It is the largest community gathering of its kind for individuals, families, and loved ones of those who have received or given a life-saving organ, cornea, bone marrow, or tissue donation. The event includes more than 20 athletic and recreational competitions for transplant patients and living donors, 60 events for all attendees to enjoy, and celebrates transplant recipients and the donors who gave the selfless gift of life.

"A leader and innovator in the transplant space, we are honored to have CareDx's support for this year's Transplant Games," said Bill Ryan, CEO of Transplant Life Foundation. "CareDx is not only advancing care for transplants but is also dedicated to helping both pre-and post-transplant patients navigate their way through their transplant journeys by providing trusted resources, education, and connecting the transplant community as a whole."

"We are excited to be able to offer our popular AlloCare mobile patient application to all attendees to not only engage with all aspects of the Games but also learn how it can be tailored and used in a patient's transplant journey," said Kashif Rathore, Senior Vice President of Patient and Digital Business at CareDx. "We look forward to sharing how AlloCare helps patients navigate their pre-transplant waitlisting process and medication adherence post-transplantation."
