Compulink and Weave Partner to Offer Streamlined Communication Software

2017-01-25

LEHI, Utah, Jan. 25, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- Weave, a leader in customer communication technology, and Compulink, a leader in EHR and Practice Management solutions for the specialty practice, announce the launch of an integrated solution for its mutual clients. This integrated solution will help practices improve patient interactions by empowering the front desk with access to pertinent information at the exact moment the patient calls in.

"We are excited to be partnering with Weave," said Mary Ann Fitzhugh, Vice President of Marketing and Business Development at Compulink. "Their creative solution streamlines and automates a multitude of front office tasks. Our partnership with Weave will allow our client to make interactions with their patients more meaningful and profitable."

The integration of Compulink and Weave provides comprehensive management of both the front and back-end office functions, improving effectiveness of administrative tasks from scheduling and conversational text messaging to collecting payment. Paired with Compulink's practice management software, Weave allows front office staff to quickly and efficiently take care of the patient's needs on the phone.

"Weave is breaking the mold for traditional appointment reminder software. Integration with the practice management system allows the front office staff to know who is calling, the moment they call," said Dr. Kevin Gee, OD, FAAO. "Weave makes it easy for my office to build relationships with our patients while saving time by getting right to the most important tasks. It really does save time and creates opportunities to improve the bottom line – Weave is a no-brainer."
