This award recognizes organizations of all sizes that seek to provide the most inclusive cultures, inspiring leaders, and overall positive employee experiences.

"To be named an Inspiring Workplace is a great recognition of the work of our leaders and culture, but it's ultimately every single member of our amazing team that deserves the recognition. They make Weave what it is today," said Brooke Shreeve, Weave's Head of People. "Being a part of Weave has shown me how powerful an inclusive culture can be. I am constantly inspired by the people at Weave and their determination to make Weave an inspiring workplace where people from all walks of life want to work."

Weave is the only Utah-based company recognized on the Inspiring Workplaces List. During the judging process, independent industry leaders found that Weave's strongest award element was its leadership. Instrumental to Weave's success is CEO Roy Banks. Roy is the only black CEO of a Utah tech unicorn and has a rating of A+ on Comparably, putting him in the top 5% of CEOs of similar-sized companies.

Weave has been consistently recognized as a leader in company culture, recently named to The Women Tech Council's 2022 Shatter List. To learn more about Weave's award-winning culture, visit getweave.com/careers.
