"Nearly a decade after participating in Y Combinator, Weave continues to show persistent innovation, growth and market opportunity," said Brett White, CEO of Weave. "We're thrilled to be recognized by Y Combinator as one of just 16 publicly-traded companies on their list, which exemplifies our position as a best-in-class communication and engagement solution. We're laser-focused on continuing to deliver immediate and measurable business value to our customers — the healthcare practices who are the backbone of our local business communities."

The 2023 Y Combinator Top Companies List is divided into Private, Public, Exits, and Breakthrough categories. Since 2005, Y Combinator has funded over 4,000 companies, including many that have become household names. Today, over a dozen Y Combinator companies are public and the combined valuation of Y Combinator alumni is over $600B. Weave was the first Utah company to go through Y Combinator's startup bootcamp in 2014.

In the past year, Weave has grown the offerings included in its all-in-one platform — strengthening its Payments product with a Buy Now, Pay-Over-Time solution, launching a revamped Online Scheduling tool, and a new Insurance Verification product for dental practices. Weave's revenue growth has been continually recognized in the last year through its inclusion on the Deloitte Technology Fast 500, Utah Business Fast 50 list and the MountainWest Capital Network Utah 100.
