For more than 30 years, the Postal Service's Supplier Recognition Program has honored suppliers that make significant contributions to operational performance, cost savings, revenue generation, and collaborative partnership across the organization. SPA recipients are evaluated annually and recognized as critical suppliers supporting Postal Service operations.

Everforth ECS supports USPS through mission-focused technology, cybersecurity, enterprise modernization, and emerging AI-enabled solutions designed to improve performance, increase efficiency, and deliver measurable operational outcomes. The company's work reflects a continued commitment to helping USPS modernize responsibly while maintaining the reliability, security, and trust required of critical services. The company has partnered with the Postal Service for more than 15 years.

"Being recognized by the United States Postal Service with a 2025 Supplier Performance Award reflects the dedication of our teams and the strength of our long-standing partnership with USPS," said Donnie Scott, president of Everforth ECS. "We are proud to help advance mission-critical initiatives that improve operational efficiency, strengthen cybersecurity, and deliver measurable value across the enterprise. Across everything we do, we are also focused on responsibly applying AI to drive significant outcomes for USPS, from accelerating modernization and improving decision-making to strengthening service delivery for the American public."
