"Consumer Revolution in Healthcare" Panel Offers Insights on Keeping Pace with Evolving Patient Expectations

LEWISVILLE, Texas--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Teladoc, Inc. (NYSE:TDOC), the first and largest telehealth platform in the United States, announced that Alan Roga, MD, FACEP, Teladoc senior vice president and general manager, provider market, will participate in the J.P. Morgan Healthcare Banking Group's 4th Annual Healthcare Advisory Council. The exclusive event brings together a small group of chief financial officers from top provider organizations nationwide. The event will take place at J.P. Morgan New York headquarters on October 18 - 19, 2016.

On October 19, 2016, Dr. Roga will participate in the panel discussion "Consumer Revolution in Healthcare," which will address ways hospitals and health systems can best keep pace with evolving patient expectations. Key insights will include:

- Main drivers of consumer use in health care
- Top considerations when developing a consumer program measuring success
- Strategies for hospitals and health systems in best determining investments with disruptive health and technology solutions that are constantly evolving

Dr. Roga will be joined on the panel by Kevin Kumler, vice president of Health Systems, Zocdoc, and David Newman, executive director, Health Care Cost Institute. Scott Geller, head of Specialized Industries at J.P. Morgan, will moderate the discussion. Keynote speakers include Gordon Smith, chief executive officer of Consumer and Community Banking and Jamie Dimon, chairman and chief executive officer, JPMorgan Chase & Co.
