CACI Awarded $25 Million Contract to Support U.S. Army Software Engineering Center

New Work for CACI Will Help Army Develop, Deliver More Secure Applications

ARLINGTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CACI International Inc (NYSE MKT: CACI) announced today that it has been awarded a $25 million contract to provide software application development and sustainment support for the U.S. Army Communications-Electronics Command's (CECOM) Software Engineering Center (SEC). The three year contract represents new work in CACI's Command and Control market area.

The mission of the CECOM SEC is to ensure operational readiness by developing, providing, integrating, and maintaining Army command and control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (C4ISR), logistics, and business software. Under the contract award, CACI will provide application development and sustainment for a wide range of Army enterprise software applications, ranging from historical record-keeping to financial management systems.

CACI Chief Operating Officer and President of U.S. Operations John Mengucci said, "This contract award expands our long-standing work with U.S. Army CECOM SEC, which is built on CACI's unique combination of subject matter and domain expertise with sophisticated technology. We will be helping the customer develop and deliver critical applications more securely and cost effectively."

Ken Asbury, CACI's President and Chief Executive Officer said, "Our new work with the U.S. Army Communications-Electronics Command's Software Engineering Center is a significant strategic win for CACI. We are extremely proud to be helping the Army ensure that the applications it relies on to manage its operations from the enterprise to the tactical edge will be developed securely and effectively."
