

CACI Awarded $28.7 Million Task Order to Support U.S. Air Force Civil Engineer Center's Information Technology Modernization Program

Arlington, Va., September 18, 2017 - CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI) announced today that it was awarded a task order, with a ceiling value of $28.7 million, to provide integration, sustainment, and deployment services to support the U.S. Air Force Civil Engineer Center's NexGen information technology modernization program. This 19-month task order, awarded under the GSA government-wide Alliant acquisition vehicle, by the Air Force Lifecycle Management Center represents continuing business in its Business Systems market area.

The U.S. Air Force Civil Engineer Center provides civil engineering services and enterprise lifecycle leadership to Air Force installations that enable the warfighter. Under this task order, CACI will continue to build out and deploy the enterprise-wide solution for Air Force facilities management. CACI will work with the Air Force to implement an Agile development methodology to support the Air Force's evolving business processes and the need for accurate and timely reporting to meet standards for real property and financial auditing.

CACI Chief Operating Officer John Mengucci said, "CACI has a long history of successfully managing large, complex enterprise-wide software solutions for customers. Our intimate knowledge of the U.S. Air Force Civil Engineer Center, coupled with the software expertise of our team enables us to support the program from a holistic business process perspective."

Ken Asbury, CACI's President and Chief Executive Officer, said, "CACI is proud to continue our partnership supporting the U.S. Air Force Civil Engineer Center's mission of supporting our military men and women with enterprise-wide solutions that enable them to focus on their role in protecting our nation. As national security missions continue to evolve, we remain committed to advancing the solutions and technologies our Armed Forces need to gain an operational advantage."
