

CACI Opens Dr. J.P. (Jack) London Shared Services Center in Oklahoma City

Arlington, Va., July 10, 2018 - CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI) announced that its new Dr. J.P. (Jack) London Shared Services Center (SSC) in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma is now operational with today's grand opening. By bringing centralized, state-of-the-art resources and expertise to CACI's business operations, the SSC will optimize the delivery of cost-effective, high-quality support services with greater reliability and consistency across the company.

The SSC is named for CACI's Executive Chairman and Chairman of the Board Dr. J.P. (Jack) London, as the founder of the modern-day CACI and an Oklahoma City native. The SSC's highly motivated and talented employees are a strong fit with CACI's culture of ethics and integrity and mission-first commitment. The Center also expands the company's presence in the state, where CACI has business supporting the U.S. Army, U.S. Air Force, and Federal Aviation Administration.

By creating a more effective support structure for business operations, the SSC will enhance CACI's competitiveness and delivery of long-term shareholder value. It will be scalable to accommodate future acquisitions. In addition, it will provide cost advantages that will be invested into employee growth and further research and development of CACI capabilities.

According to Executive Vice President and Shared Services Officer Tom Nesteruk, "I'm proud to lead the skilled CACI professionals on our Shared Services Center team in Oklahoma City. CACI is a remarkable company with an exceptional track record of success that we are delighted to continue in Oklahoma City's dynamic environment."
