BitGo Launches Crypto-as-a-Service Platform for Fintechs and Banks to Easily Offer Crypto Trading to Their End Users

2025-05-22

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)--BitGo, the leading infrastructure provider of digital asset solutions, today announced the launch of its Crypto-as-a-Service (CaaS) platform—a powerful solution designed to enable financial institutions, fintechs, and enterprises to seamlessly embed crypto functionality directly into their products.

BitGo's CaaS platform leverages the firm's secure wallet infrastructure, modular APIs, and regulatory licensing to significantly simplify operational and infrastructure requirements, and allow businesses to build, launch, and scale digital asset products faster and more compliantly than ever before.

"Our Crypto-as-a-Service platform gives fintechs and banks the turnkey tools they need to participate in the digital asset economy—all while meeting the highest standards for compliance, security, and user experience," said Mike Belshe, CEO of BitGo. "We've made it easier than ever for a wide range of financial institutions to integrate crypto into their business and meet growing client demand—without the friction and significant time and resources required to run their own marketplace."

The platform is built on BitGo's leading infrastructure and compliance stack, trusted by thousands of institutions worldwide. Core functionality includes:

- Secure, Enterprise-Grade Wallet Infrastructure
- Regulatory Licensing and Compliance
- Trading, Transfers, and Staking Capabilities
- Built in KYC and AML Tools
- Granular Governance and Policy Controls
- Custodial Insurance up to $250 Million
- 24/7 Technical and Client Support

Designed with flexibility in mind, these features can be integrated modularly to allow businesses to tailor offerings to their specific needs and scale quickly. With the acceleration of global crypto adoption, BitGo's Crypto-as-a-Service platform empowers organizations to quickly tap into the crypto economy, create new revenue streams, and meet growing user demand.
