Moon Inc. Taps BitGo to Scale Bitcoin-Powered Card Products Across Asia

2026-05-14

NEW YORK & HONG KONG--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- BitGo Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: BTGO) (“BitGo”), the digital asset infrastructure company, today announced a strategic partnership with Moon Inc. (HKEX: 1723) (“Moon Inc.”), serving as the foundational infrastructure layer powering Moon Inc.'s bitcoin-linked consumer card products through BitGo Singapore Pte. Ltd., a Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS) regulated entity. BitGo will enable Moon Inc. to securely scale digital asset integration across its prepaid card platform in Asia with institutional-grade regulated custody and infrastructure services.

"Moon Inc. is at the forefront of integrating digital assets into consumer finance in Asia," said Abel Seow, Managing Director and Head of APAC at BitGo. "At BitGo, we’ve built the infrastructure backbone that enables institutions to enter their next phase of growth and we’re pleased to bring that same level of security and infrastructure to support Moon Inc. as they accelerate the adoption of bitcoin-powered payments across Asia."

"We evaluated global custody providers on security architecture, API depth, and infrastructure built for scale," said Russ Jacobsen, COO of Moon Inc. "BitGo's biometric multi-signature infrastructure, batch transaction capabilities, and securing billions in digital assets made them the clear choice to power our platform."

BitGo plans to initially support Moon Inc.'s prepaid bitcoin gift card program, which has processed multiple wholesale transactions since launch and will be available in retail stores across Hong Kong and through Moon Inc.'s online store beginning this month.

The partnership is expected to expand further to support the launch of Moon Inc.'s next consumer card product, scheduled for launch in Q2 2026.
