"Responsible Care has been part of the fabric of FMC a long time," said Pierre Brondeau, president, CEO and chairman of FMC. "It has become a part of everything we do. It is a core value in many aspects, much more than what we would call a system or a process. This has led to a culture of continuous improvement that has produced winning results with employees and through the communities we serve."

To be eligible for the Company of the Year award, companies must demonstrate: a recordable injury rating in the top 10 percent of companies in their size category; positive performance trends in process safety, transportation safety and emissions reduction; public availability of product stewardship information; as well as on-time or early completion of required performance metrics reporting and RCMS®/RC14001® certification and Code implementation.

Leadership and employee involvement were instrumental in earning FMC this recognition. As part of this award FMC was recognized by ACC for collective efforts that led to:

- Achieving a significant reduction in total recordable incident rate.
- Utilizing the highly impactful THINK. SAFE. safety awareness program.
- Receiving an A- score from the CDP (formerly the Carbon Disclosure Project).
- Setting aggressive 2020 and 2025 sustainability and environmental impact goals.
- Focusing on various community engagement, product stewardship and process safety initiatives.

"FMC leadership is proud of this accomplishment," said Linda Froelich, director of sustainability for FMC. "Commitment to Responsible Care is rooted in our company culture and is visible in the everyday efforts of the workforce, the passion of the leadership and the strength of the company's partnerships."
